

Happy Independence!

This July not only brings Independence Day, but news of our Independence Boot Camp — this session was a huge success! We cooked Thai, Chinese, Hungarian, Mexican, and Italian delights, learned CPR, first aid and disaster planning, how to sew on a button and remove stains, how to clean a bathroom without getting your hands wet, went to Ranch 99, Trader Joe's, OSH, Planned Parenthood and Village Green Apartments...we kept very busy! Participants left tired, smarter, and with a tote filled with kitchen gear, workshop tools, and a binder filled with reference materials — a good time, and an instructive time, as well!

Whassup with EvoLibri?

Running our Independence Boot Camp pretty much consumed June, but...I had a great meeting with Santa Clara University discussing how best to serve their neurodiverse students, and I'll be a guest lecturer in one of SCU's special ed classes. Through Mountain View High School, I have been invited to be part of the Stressed Out Students symposium offered in conjunction with Stanford University this fall, which looks to be very interesting and informative!

Upcoming Parent's Information Nights...
